Senate To Investigate Dodd Finances

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate ethics committee, rejecting arguments by Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, has decided to hold public hearings into the Connecticut Democrat's financial affairs.

Dodd's chief counsel, John Sonnett, contended Monday at a closed committee session that the Senate is not empowered to investigate the senator's financial activities.

After a meeting of nearly four hours, the committee issued a statement saying that after carefully considering that contention, it decided it does have jurisdiction.

Staff investigators have spent months on the probe and have examined subpoenaed financial records.

The bipartisan committee, in a statement issued by Chairman John Stennis, D-Miss., and Vice Chairman Wallace F. Bennett, R-Utah, said it had ordered public hearings to be held "as soon as practicable."

Stennis and Bennett said the financial matters under investigation, as previously announced, include the receipt and use by Dodd, or persons or committees acting for him, of campaign funds raised between 1961 and 1965.

They also said the inquiry involves Senate payment of travel expenses to Dodd and "the propriety of Sen. Dodd's acceptance and use of automobiles loaned by a Connecticut contractor."

Columnists Drew Pearson and Jack Anderson, in a series of articles making misconduct charges against Dodd, charged he had diverted upwards of $100,000 in campaign funds to his personal use without reporting the money as taxable income.

Associates of the senator have described funds raised at testimonial dinners as tax-free gifts.

The ethics committee, created in the wake of the Senate probe of the Bobby Baker case, set no date for its hearings.

Dodd has denied the charges by Pearson and Anderson and has filed a $2 million libel suit against the columnists.

Another Space Cabin Fire Kills Airman Today

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — A flash fire similar to the one that killed the three Apollo 1 astronauts Friday raced through a space cabin simulator today at the School of Aerospace Medicine, killing one airman and critically burning another.

Initial reports said the inside of the pressure chamber was completely charred, as was the Apollo craft at Cape Kennedy.

The fire burst out at 8:45 a.m., a Brooks Air Force Base spokesman said.

He said the airmen were performing maintenance in a 100 per cent oxygen and pressurized environment in an experiment designed to study the effects of pure oxygen on the blood of rabbits.

Ten of 12 rabbits in the chamber also were charred.

The spokesman said the airmen were in the chamber to monitor and tend to the rabbits, which were the subject of the study.

The atmosphere chamber is a large rectangle with part glass on one side and with double atmosphere locks, so that a person can go into a tiny room, close the door and then open another to step into the main chamber to prevent pressure dropping.

Chicago residents are still at the task after a record breaking snow storm that was accompanied by near zero temperatures. ### Original Code To Curb Deaths Is Toned Down

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Commerce Department published today long-awaited safety standards for 1968 model cars that reportedly have been toned down from original proposals that brought industry complaints.

The standards, together with safety programs to be developed by the states with federal help, are designed to reduce the 50,000-a-year death toll on the nation's highways.

Although officials declined to say anything about specific standards, one source said, "They won't be too severe." They must be published by mid-night.

An official said any softening of the original 23 proposals announced in early December is not a retreat. "The earlier proposals were merely starting points, talking points," he said.

Conference Today

The department scheduled a mid-afternoon news conference to outline the proposals. They can be expected to include seven standards the domestic industry has said it could meet immediately and possibly some sort of regulation on an energy-absorbing steering column favored by Dr. William Haddon Jr., the national highway safety administrator.

The installation deadline could be extended on other standards which the industry has said it can't meet immediately. Others might be modified but perhaps not as far as the industry wants. The department has said it would be impractical to publish standards which the industry is incapable of meeting.

The industry will have 31 days to comment on the standards.

Ford and General Motors previously said they could meet immediately 10 of the original proposals. American Motors said it could comply with 16 almost immediately. Chrysler said it could meet eight immediately.

Time Is Slacker

The manufacturers unanimously oppose three proposals — one to reduce injury to occupants coming into contact with a car's interior after a crash, others requiring anchorages for seats and seat belts.

A primary complaint was a lack of time to meet the proposed standards. Auto makers traditionally require two years lead time from drawing board to mass production.

The seven original proposals domestic manufacturers said they could meet immediately are: standard automatic transmission sequence, motor-driven windshield wipers and washers and the amount of space the wipers should cover, leak-resistant brake hoses, seat belt assemblies, elimination of knock-off hubcaps and wheel covers, rupture-resistant fuel tanks and safety glass standards.

U.P. Told To Shift To Varied Visitor Appeal

ISHPEMING (AP) — Researchers told Upper Michigan today to start a revolution in its tourist business by building entertainment centers to turn some "roughing-it" country into vacationland.

These centers could take advantage of — and not spoil — the area's natural beauty, they said.

Prof. Henry Barbour of Michigan State University was to report to a meeting of industry, recreational and community leaders on findings from a two-year study of the area's tourism and recreation industry.

"The trend has been toward the vacation shopping center concept," was one finding.

"Even those who enjoy the natural beauties of the wildlands indicate a desire for more urban entertainment," said a 92-page report by Uel Blank and Clare A. Gunn of MSU.

They suggested development of attractions clusters and supporting services — such as restaurants and gasoline stations — "in a manner which enhances the valuable natural and man-made resource assets."

Cluster Concept

The clusters might offer everything from ice cream to gourmet dinners, from nature hikes to bowling, they said.

Their report proposed ways to build tourist attractions around mining areas, lumbering towns, Indian villages and other historic or scenic sites.

A lumber camp could entertain visitors with an operating sawmill, a river drive of floating logs, log-rolling contests, trips on a lumber schooner and entertainment at reconstructed bars from the lumberjack era, Gunn and Blank suggested.

The university, the Upper Peninsula Committee on Area Progress and the Economic Development Administration financed the two-year study, which calls for immediate action.

Hannah Is Keynote

MSU President John Hannah was to deliver the keynote address at today's conference on the study report.

Blank and Gunn said nature lovers have argued against development of the area, fearing its unique charm and beauty might be spoiled.

But, they said, "proper development and expansion of the right locations can actually reduce the development pressure upon extensive recreational lands."

The two urged that penetration of interior wild lands be handled carefully since "Collections of multicolored trailers, tents and drying laundry are not necessarily compatible with lake-forest scenery."

Best Quality

They suggested centers offering exhibits and lectures to provide visitors with the best possible understanding of natural surroundings.

"When the Upper Peninsula makes greater use of its recreational resources, raises its quality of offerings, maintains sensitivity to its unique features and solidifies its approach, a revolution in tourism economics and visitors satisfaction will take place," they reported.

Air Pollution Probe To Start

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress, which already has authorized sizable expenditures in the field, starts a search next week for new ways to curb auto and factory pollution of the air.

Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, announced a Public Works subcommittee he heads will start public hearings next Wednesday with testimony from John W. Gardner, secretary of health, education and welfare, on a new set of proposals sent to Congress by President Johnson Monday.

Sen. Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa., observed in the Senate that "any politician who picks up this issue (of air pollution) and runs with it will never regret it."

In his message, Johnson called for establishment of federal minimum levels for certain pollutants and enforcement of them in "regional airsheds."

'We're On Fire, Get Us Out,' Doomed Astronauts Scream

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Times said today that the last words heard from the three Apollo 1 astronauts who were killed last Friday were: "We're on fire! Get us out of here!"

The shrill voice was believed to be that of Navy Lt. Cmdr. Roger B. Chaffee, the Times said in a dispatch from Cape Kennedy, Fla.

It was previously reported by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration that the last words, from an unidentified voice, were: "Fire in the spacecraft!"

The Times' story gave this account:

The astronauts' last moments, clocked at 12 seconds, were described by an engineer who spent most of the day listening to tape recordings of the fatal test and who heard reports from men on the launching pad at the time of the tragedy.

Commander Chaffee and the other crewmen, Lt. Col. Virgil I. Grissom and Edward H. White II of the Air Force were scrambling, clawing and pounding to open the sealed hatch and escape the inferno in their Apollo cockpit, the source said.

But the hatch was unyielding, he said, and they had no time to reach for the ratchet that is normally used to unscrew it. There was no automatic release button.

The first hint of trouble, according to the source, came in almost casual tones.

"Fire ... I smell fire," an unidentified astronaut reported over the intercom.

Two seconds passed.

"Fire in the cockpit!" cried Col. White. This time the voice was sharp and insistent. It was identified as Col. White's by Donald K. Slayton, a former astronaut and now chief of crew operations.

There was silence for three seconds — then a hysterical shout from an unidentified astronaut:

"There's a bad fire in the spacecraft!"

A longer silence followed, about seven seconds. There were sounds of frantic movement, unintelligible shouting. Finally, after another four seconds, Commander Chaffee cried out the last words of distress: "We're on fire! Get us out of here!"

Final Tributes Paid Astronauts

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson and Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey led graveside homage today to the three astronauts killed in a spacecraft inferno.

First to go to rest, on a wintry hilltop in Arlington National Cemetery, was Air Force Lt. Col. Virgil I. Grissom.

Johnson stood with hat on heart during the final honors and at the end, when the blonde widow Betty had received the flag which had draped the casket, the President pressed her hand and the hands of the two sons, Scott, 16, and Mark, 13.

Next on the sad scheduled were the burials of:

—Air Force Lt. Col. Edward H. White II at 11 a.m. at the Military Academy at West Point, N.Y.

—Navy Lt. Cmdr. Roger B. Chaffee at 1 p.m., side by side with Grissom at Arlington.

Inquiry Continued

In a brief graveside sermon before Grissom's burial, the Rev. Roy Van Tassel, of the astronaut's home church, the Church of Christ, Mitchell, Ind., spoke of Grissom's "wonderful life, filled with wonderful experience—a life of service to his country and his fellow men."

Governor Heads Prisoner Hunt

CARSON CITY, Nev. (AP) — Gov. Paul Laxalt took command of 40 men to capture seven state prison escapees Monday — then fired Warden Jack Fogliani on the spot.

Bars on death row were opened during the escape but none of the six men sentenced to the gas chamber left.

The seven escapees, including a convicted murderer, kidnaper and rapist, overpowered two guards in the maximum-security section while taking showers. They captured another guard and a maintenance man, strapped them, exchanged clothing and locked them in isolation cells.

The convicts sawed through bars and climbed over two fences to escape into sagebrush during a rain storm. They were armed with knives.

They were caught one by one within two hours, dripping wet. Forty deputies, highway patrol officers, policemen and prison guards surrounded them within a mile of the penitentiary.

It was the second escape in five days. Two inmates fled the prison farm last Thursday and held three members of a Carson City family hostage before being captured.

Results for 1966 include a full year's operations of Velsicol Chemical Corp. and Michigan Chemical Corp., the company's chemical manufacturing subsidiaries. In 1966, the net operating income of the chemical companies amounted to $14.8 million. In 1965 during the six month period from the date of acquisition, July 1 to Dec. 31, the net operating income of the chemical companies was $5.1 million. The North Western's net railway operating income for 1966 was $16.8 million, compared with $15.5 million in 1965.

Railway operating revenues in 1966 totaled $242.5 million compared with $227.5 million in 1965, an increase of 6.6 per cent, due to a record $213.4 million increase in freight revenues from $199.7 million.

Hellman Pleads For Isle Royale Use By People

HOUGHTON (AP) — People should not be forgotten in any efforts to protect the wilderness, federal officials were told today.

Rep. Russell Hellman, D-Dollar Bay, offered the caution as the U.S. Interior Department held a hearing at Houghton on plans to create a wilderness area in Isle Royale National Park.

The day-long hearing is being held at Michigan Technological University.

Interior Department plans call for keeping more than 90 per cent of the remote island in Lake Superior in a state of natural wilderness.

The island is noted as one of the last sanctuaries for large packs of wolves and herds of moose.

Arthur Elmer, former head of the conservation department parks division and a member of the advisory commission to the federal planners, said most conservationists favor the federal planning.

Hellman, who offered written testimony saying he was unable to attend because of legislative duties, had some reservations. "I caution you not to make Isle Royale a green, beautiful unused desert by prohibiting its use to such an extent that it becomes unusable," Hellman said.

This seems to be the current trend of federal planning, he said, citing restricted use of Pictured Rocks, Sleeping Bear Dunes, Isle Royale, Wolf River and National Park Lands.

"It is unfair and prejudiced to ask the people of the Upper Peninsula to hold their lands in abeyance, practically tax free."

Thirteen Students Gain Honor Rolls At Perkins H.S.

Thirteen students at Perkins High School were named to the first semester honor rolls announced today.

while the rest of the nation and the state enjoy prosperous activities in manufacturing, business, agriculture and Coney Island type tourist profits," he said.

If the people of the Upper Peninsula are expected to maintain untouched and unspoiled lands, Hellman said, they "should be compensated for the taxes and profits which they are required to sacrifice upon the wilderness altar."

A total of 13 courses will be offered in the Escanaba Area adult evening school program, director Vernon Ihlenfeldt announced today.

Registration for the classes will be held from 7:30 to 9 p.m. Wednesday in the Junior High School. Instructors will be present to help students and answer questions on the courses.

Ihlenfeldt said most of the classes will be offered in two-hour sessions on one night for 12 weeks. Fees will vary according to time spent in the class, textbooks, if needed, and materials used in the class.

Courses to be offered on Monday nights are: beginning knitting, sewing, art in water color, machine shop, typing and beginning and intermediate bridge. Scheduled Tuesday nights are: intermediate knitting, ceramics, liquid embroidery, guitar, upholstery and shorthand.

Thirteen persons have expressed interest in the short-hand course and Frank Miketnac has consented to teach the course, hoping three more interested persons will be located. The class will be taught Tuesday and Thursday evenings for six weeks to provide a better continuity of thought between class periods. Ihlenfeldt said students interested in knitting will be given the opportunity to consider an afternoon class, if enough students would prefer that time.

Under policy established by the Board of Education, the adult evening school must be self supporting. To meet instructor's salaries, a total of 16 students are needed per class. Anyone age 16 or older may enroll in a class. For more information, call 786-4468.

Blizzard Delays Local Airman's Return To Base

An Escanaba airman had quite an experience with the snowstorm in Chicago.

A3C John A. Fisher, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Fisher, 403 S. 8th St., left Escanaba last Wednesday to return to Davis Mountain Air Force Base, Tucson, Ariz., where he is stationed after spending leave with his parents.

Arriving in Chicago, Fisher discovered his flight unable to leave because of fog. Thursday he reported home he was still unable to leave as Chicago rapidly filled up with snow. He spent the night on a lounge at O'Hare airport. Friday night, still snowbound, Fisher and 39 other servicemen were taken to Glenview, Ill., Naval Air station where they were given food and lodging.

They were taken back to O'Hare field Sunday, finally getting off the ground Monday, none the worse for wear but awfully late.

District Elects Dave Soderman

Delta County Soil Conservation District's annual meeting at Perkins Legion Hall Monday night—postponed earlier because of a storm—drew 180 persons and elected Dave Soderman, Rte. 1, Gladstone, as a director for one year to succeed Steve Psodna, of Garden.

Melvin Taylor, Schaffer, and Elmer Lepisto, Rock, were re-elected for three year terms.

Report on the district's soil use planning activities, reported earlier in the Escanaba Daily Press, was made by Irwin Ten Haken, soil conservationist, who introduced Del Meister, area conservationist, and Lawrence Ewing, director of the Marquette Soil Conservation District, both of Marquette. "America The Beautiful," slide presentation, was made by Ten Haken. Lunch was served by the Legion Auxiliary.

Travel Show Is Advanced: U.P.'s Materials Asked

As a result of the Chicago McCormack Place fire, and so that the Chicago Automobile show may be scheduled in the International Amphitheatre, the Chicago Sports and Vacation show opening has been moved up from Feb. 19 to Feb. 10, according to Ken Dorman, secretary-manager of the Upper Michigan Tourist Association.

"This has resulted in a crash program for the Upper Peninsula communities to staff these shows and have the literature available for the earlier date," said Dorman. "The Chicago Sports show is one of the major shows that UMTA has participated in for the last five years. It normally has an attendance of over 400,000. Volunteers planning on staffing this show should contact Jerry Pulliam, secretary-manager of Marquette Chamber of Commerce, who is the show's coordinator for UMTA's program this year.

"Communities or organizations having literature available for distribution at this show should be sure to see that their literature will arrive prepaid prior to the opening date in order to take advantage of the tremendous crowd expected on the first weekend due to the holiday of Illinois schools for Lincoln's birthday."

PAT Ceremony Is Called Off

Because of scheduling difficulties in Gov. Romney's itinerary for the Governor's Upper Peninsula inauguration on Saturday, there will be no Peninsula Air Transport stop at Escanaba Saturday morning, it was announced today.

Plans had been made to have Lt. Gov. William G. Milliken and Mrs. Milliken fly to Escanaba from their home at Traverse City, with a ceremony at the Escanaba airport at 9:30 a.m. on Saturday marking the beginning of scheduled passenger flight service by Peninsula Air Transport.

H. J. "Bud" Norton, president of PAT of Escanaba, said that he has been advised by Gov. Romney's office that the proposed Escanaba ceremony, which was to include a reception and ribbon cutting at the airport, would not be feasible.

The Governor and Lieutenant Governor and other state officials will be in Marquette for the Upper Michigan inauguration. The first such event was held in Escanaba in 1963.

Peninsula Air Transport will begin regularly scheduled flight service connecting Escanaba, Marquette, Iron Mountain, Sault Ste. Marie, Traverse City, Saginaw and Lansing on Monday, Feb. 6.

Regard For Snow

The current winter has brought the Upper Peninsula more snow than it has had in over a decade, but while we have had some difficulties of our own — notably the Thanksgiving Weekend and Jan. 16th snowstorms — our greater interest has been in the trouble to the south of us.

The Chicago Area and Lower Michigan had a storm last week from which they're still digging out. Wisconsin cities sent snow removal equipment to stricken Chicago.

Its radio stations in the weekend were broadcasting appeals for emergency elevator men to remove people trapped in stalled lifts, for snow shovelers — with their own snow shovels — to report at hospitals, for neighborhood help to assist hospital workers. Children were told that many schools wouldn't be open on Monday and workers were told about resumption of work schedules at their plants.

In Lower Michigan Governor Romney asked Lansingites to form block parties and shovel out their streets. There were shortages of bread and other day-to-day supply items. Michigan State University didn't hold classes for the first time in more than a century. It was a historic jam.

Paul Harvey broadcast from Chicago that a mental attitude as well as a deep blanket of snow figured in the city's tie-up. He had, he said, been at Northern Michigan University in Marquette to give a talk a few weeks ago and it had as much snow as Chicago, but no panic or helplessness. People took it in stride and waited for an excellent snow removal system in the Upper Peninsula to open the highways.

Actually the highways in the Upper Peninsula have fewer days of poor driving and impassability than those in the Lower Peninsula, according to the State Highway Department. When there's precipitation in the Upper Peninsula in the winter it's nearly always snow and the plows push it off the road. In the Lower Peninsula precipitation can't make up its mind in winter and its thermal indecision between rain and snow often results in a compromise of sleet or slush that raise the cuss rate among motorists alarmingly.

As Lansing came out of its snowbound homes and started the processes of modern living again the Associated Press said that Governor Romney would go to Marquette "on the frozen shores of Lake Superior" for his U.P. inaugural next Saturday. Lansing may be snowbound, but Superior isn't frozen. It never freezes, but we can't seem to get Lower Michigan to believe this, since it assumes that the snowline gets deeper as you travel north and that by the time you reach Superior there must be a Himalaya of the white stuff.

The Upper Peninsula has lived with snow for so long that it's a love affair now. We call it "the Poor Man's Fertilizer" and if we don't get enough of it we think that nature has cheated us and that our trout fishing will be effected and also our potato growing and our forest fire suppression.

In 40 years we have retired the horse traffic, developed the plow truck and ended our winter hibernation. We still have some weather tantrums that slow us up, but schools are seldom closed for more than a day and that's because the bus pickups are on side roads that don't get plowed out until the second day in some areas. The trunklines are very seldom closed at any time, although there were some blockades in the Thanksgiving storm that halted cars.

Our fear is that Chicagoans and Lansingites who never come to the Upper Peninsula in winter may, in a moment of self-pity suggest: "If it's this bad here, what must it be in the Upper Peninsula!"

Well, we didn't get your storm, chums, so no sweat. The roads and streets were bare here and the sun was shining. We do have our own storms but no hangers. Mae West had a word for it: "C'm up and see us sometime!"

BAY BEACON

Concerning the article in the Daily Press of Jan. 27, entitled "Future Bay College Sites Cut to Five, Board Told," you stated "Contrary to a report in the 'Bay Beacon,' the college newspaper, Rinehart said the present building would continue to be used by the Community College for 'at least 15 years.'"

I would refer you to your reprint, on Jan. 21, of our article in which we stated, "A subcommittee of the Faculty Long Range Planning Committee has recommended that... 'use of the present structure be discontinued. At no time in our article did we state that any member of the Board, the administration, or the faculty had definitely stated that the present building or site would be abandoned. We did not even imply that anyone other than the subcommittee was even thinking along these lines."

Dr. Rinehart and the Board feel that the articles infer that the present building would definitely be abandoned in the near future. It may be that they came by this fear from the same place some of the members of our staff got the feeling that your article of the 27th gave the impression we of the "Bay Beacon" were being irresponsible in our reporting of the facts.

Contrary to the statement in your article, we did not, "quote a member of a faculty subcommittee," rather we did our reporting from a mimeographed report, issued under the names of the full subcommittee, and our article had the full approval of the chairman of the committee.

I can understand the Board's concern to avoid misunderstanding by the public, but the wording of their "explanation" in your article was rather unfortunate, in that it seemed to put the "Bay Beacon" in a bad light, which I am sure was not the intention of the Board or Dr. Rinehart.

I also would like to thank the "Daily Press" for the recognition you gave the "Bay Beacon" in reprinting one of our articles, and express the hope that we will continue to produce stories of such quality that you are able to use them in the future.

How Come? "Spalding Plans School Ballot Meet Thursday." For once you were never so right. It is true and I agree wholeheartedly; but not only that, all school functions emanate from the school at Spalding.

Actually I am dumbfounded. How could you have been so wrong all these years? Especially when the fraud perpetrated by your Press dictated that the caption should have been viz: Powers Plans School Ballot Meet Thursday.

Are you belatedly discovering the actual location of our Public School? Is it because it is still a fraud to concede a fraud? Why the change of heart and dictum?

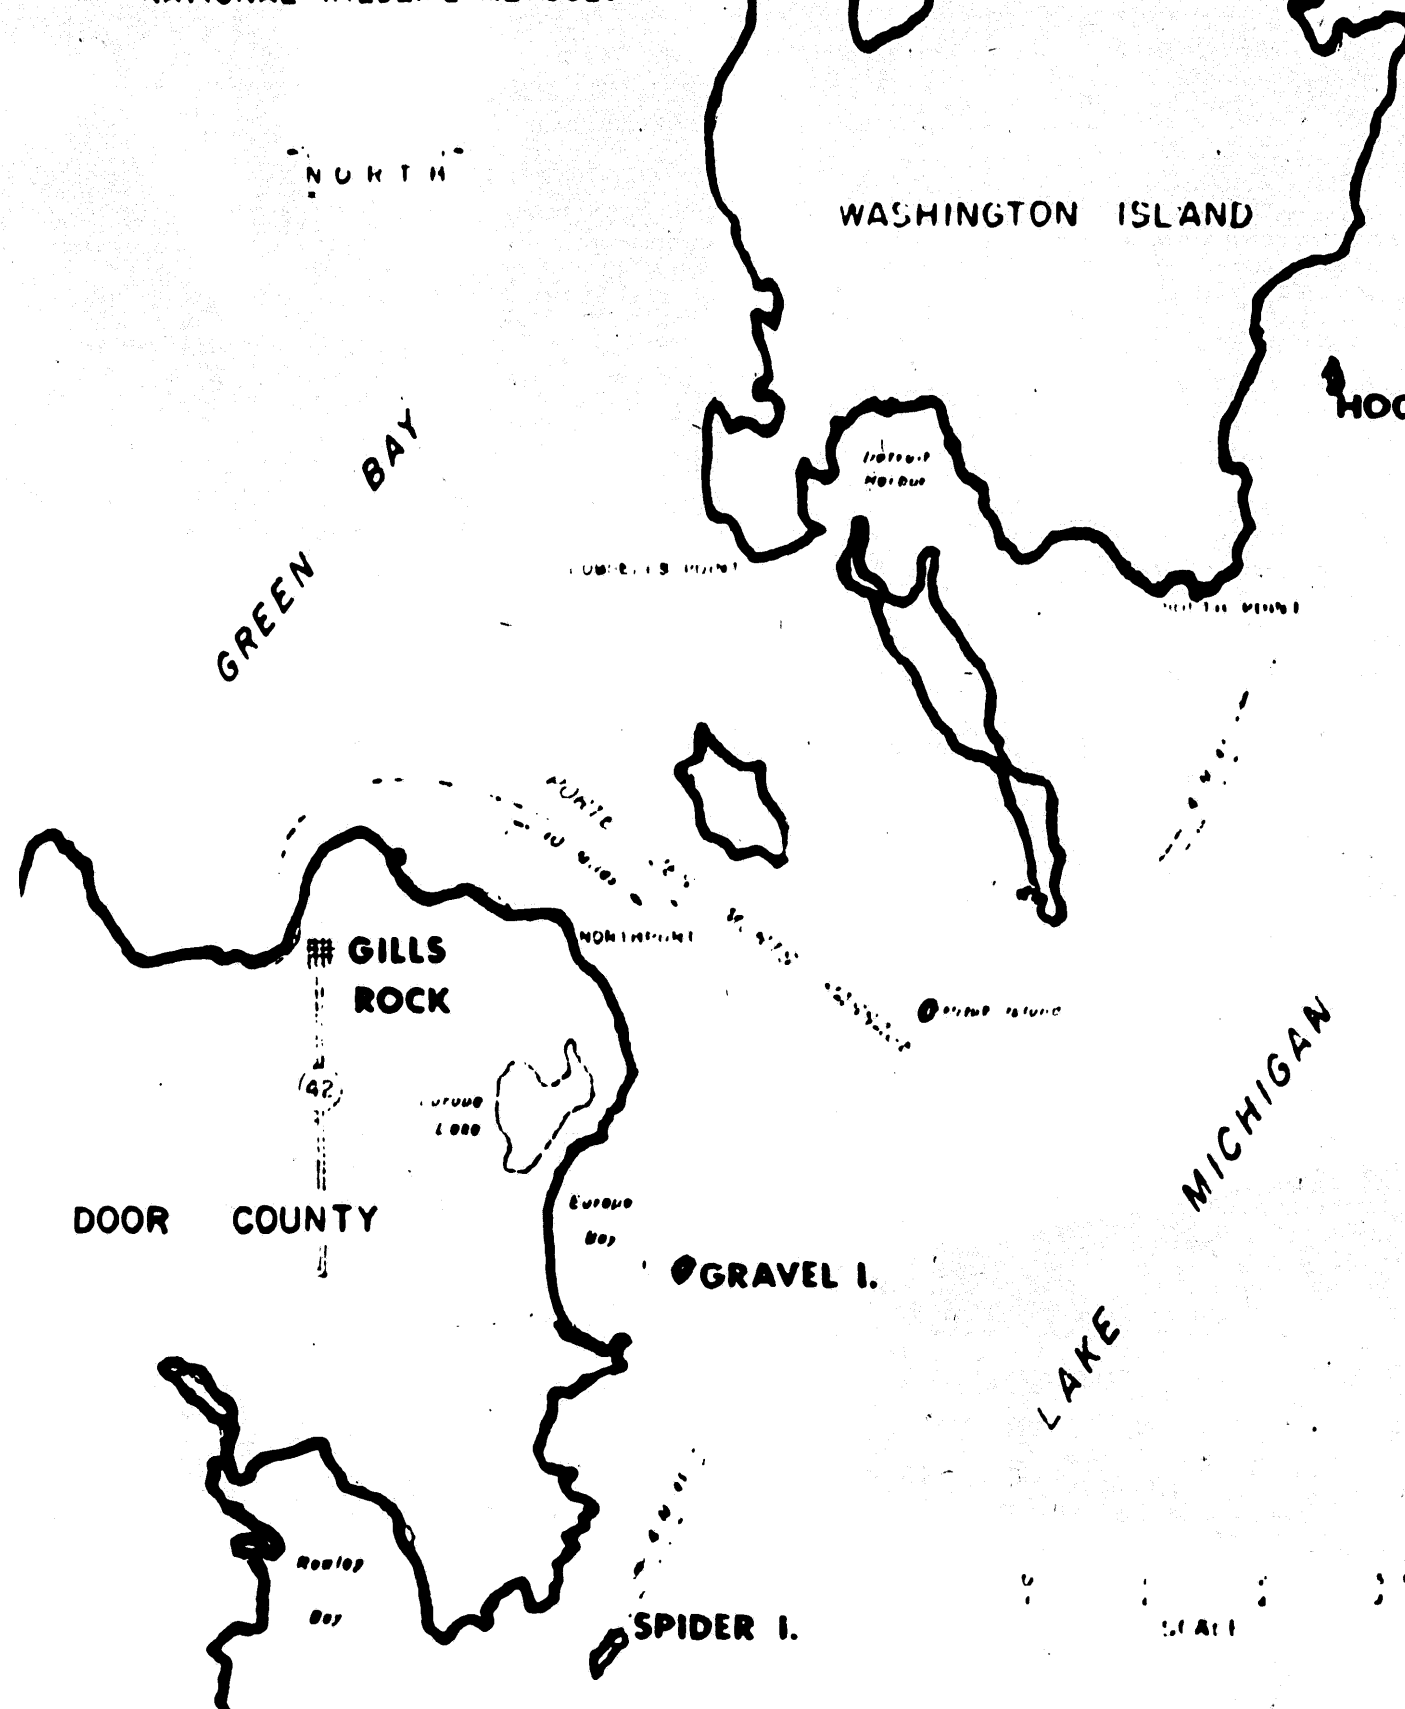

To the party responsible for the true caption, a medal is in order, for having placed our public school in proper perspective and a minor reward to the Press for its publication.

I would not be the proper person to M. C. at the presentation of the awards.

WISCONSIN ISLANDS

GREEN BAY & GRAVEL ISLAND
NATIONAL WILDLIFE REFUGES

Wilderness Society Proposal

Bay Island Protection Asked

The Wilderness Society is asking the Secretary of Interior in his review of every roadless area and roadless island within the national wildlife refuges and game ranges to put three Green Bay islands under the permanent protection that would be provided by inclusion in the National Wilderness Preservation System.

The island is Hog Island, now called the Green Bay National Wildlife Refuge and set aside in 1912 as a preserve and breeding ground for native birds, and Gravel and Spider islands, which composed Gravel Island National Wildlife Refuge and which were set aside in 1913 for the same purpose.

The three small, scattered islands are located within a mile offshore in Lake Michigan on the east side of Door County in northeastern Wisconsin. Gills Rock, the access point for the island, is at the tip of the Door Peninsula, 40 miles north of Sturgeon Bay.

The three limestone islands, which total 29 acres and vary in elevation from 10 to 20 feet above lake level, have grass, brush and some trees. While ground hemlock has suffered heavy deer browsing pressure on the mainland until it is now rare, it grows abundantly on Spider and Hog islands.

Their small size, remoteness and landing difficulties have preserved these islands from development. This situation makes them attractive to gulls, herons, and waterfowl which have made them nesting and resting grounds. Herring gulls, ring-billed gulls and waterfowl are the most common nesters, although great blue herons and black-crowned night herons are also nesters. An occasional pair of Canada geese also use the islands. The success of ground-nesting birds may be due to the solid limestone base which discourages burrowing mammalian predators.

The islands provide ideal conditions for nesting birds and no developments or management are necessary. Public demands for development have been negligible and visitors have been limited to bird enthusiasts who expect the smells and discomfures associated with gull and heron nesting colonies.

Public access should be limited, the Wilderness Society suggests, to late summer and early fall, when Lake Michigan travel "often is difficult."

The Society states "while Wilderness System areas are for the most part open for public recreational use, special areas may be closed in part or in their entirety to the public."

when general public recreational use would clash with the areas' primary wildlife management objective or alter or damage particularly fragile biological systems. These Wisconsin islands, with their sensitive nesting bird populations, may well fall into this category.

"These islands presently have no specific protection under the law from destructive intrusions and developments."

Ann Landers

Demon Driver Just Timid Wife-Beater

Dear Ann Landers: Why has no one labeled the husband's hazardous and nerve-shredding driving for what it is — the twentieth century version of wife-beating?

I'd like to describe a daily drama and I hope the players recognize themselves before the lids finally come down on their caskets.

A couple goes for a drive. The outing becomes an occasion for the husband to act out all his hostilities and aggressions. Once behind the wheel he seizes the opportunity to get even with his wife for every rotten thing she has ever said to him — real or imagined.

Risky driving has become a socially acceptable technique for punishing a wife for whatever is wrong in a man's life. Maybe he hates his mother, or his boss, or his job, or more often than not, his own inadequacies could be making him miserable. But it's the wife who catches the brunt of it every time.

I suggest that couples who are constantly at war because of the husband's driving find out what is REALLY bothering him and settle the problem at home. If torture is the objective, the husband should admit it, and go out and buy a set of thumb-screws at his friendly, neighborhood medieval museum. Wife-torturing on our streets and highways is costing society too much. — SURVIVOR

Dear Survivor: The experts in the field of traffic safety tell us that an important factor in many serious accidents is hostility. Sometimes the anger is directed at the world in general — or it may be aimed at the wife-passenger, as you suggest. There's also the possibility that the wild driver may have a sub-conscious desire to kill himself.

People who are mad at themselves, their relatives or the world should stay home and hammer away at a punching bag or go to a gym and play handball.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I went together for six years before we married so we knew each other pretty well. The big problem was religious differences. He wouldn't accept my religion and I wouldn't accept his, so we were married by a judge. All his family came to the wedding and so did mine. Everyone was very friendly and I thought we had it made, but I was wrong. Out of the blue my father-in-law decided that I do not exist. He refuses to speak to me in public or even when he comes to our home. When I told my husband I was hurt he said, "You know how my father is. Just go into another room."

If my father-in-law wishes to ignore me in public, that's bad enough, but I do feel that my husband should speak up and not let his father treat me so shabbily in our own home.

Should I make an issue of it? — BEWILDERED

Dear B: You have made an issue of it and it hasn't done any good. Obviously your husband is not emotionally equipped to stand up to his father or he would have done so. It's downright uncivilized to refuse to speak to a person whose hospitality you accept and I sympathize with you. But swallow it and keep quiet because your alternative might be a shattered marriage and it's too big a price to pay.

Confidential to: Am I Normal? How do I know? You might be normal in some respects and wacky in others. Most people are. Your feelings about the man you describe are intense to say the least, but I would not call these feelings abnormal.

HINTS FROM Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

I've been testing this hint for over a month before sending it to you.

You know those colorful, plastic mesh bags that fruit, onions, etc., come in?

They are the "living end" for scrubbing pots and pans.

Since the mesh is so heavy and "knotted", it does an excellent scrubbing job. Because it is so loosely woven, food particles rinse out easily (it just defies dirt) and the scrubber dries quickly.

Anne Murray

Yes, I've tried it and you are exactly right.

The greatest thing about it is that it was free! What has anyone got to lose by trying it?

Also: did you know you could make a pompon out of it by gathering it with a vegetable wire?

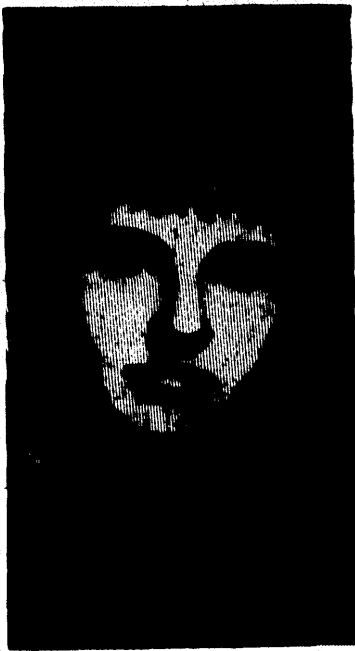

Heloise

Dear Heloise:

I have an 8"x20" aluminum-coated asbestos hot pad that I couldn't do without. (It cost less than one dollar.)

I often use it as a shield—standing it behind the frying pan on the back burner to keep the wall grease-free.

It is also handy to put over the two front burners that I rarely use (because of the children running by and possibly grabbing a simmering pan). It not only keeps those two burn-

Mao Supporters Capture Port In Bloody Fight

TOKYO (AP) — Mao Tse-tung's forces today claimed capture of the Shantung Province port of Tsingtao with army help but said they had to beat down an apparently bloody counterattack by supporters of President Liu Shao-chi.

Tsingtao, the U.S. Navy's headquarters in China until the Communists took over, was the fourth major city claimed by the Maoists in their current attempt to gain control of the government and the Chinese Communist party. The others are Shanghai, Peking and Taiyuan, capital of Shansi Province.

The Liberation Army Daily, controlled by Mao's heir apparent, Defense Minister Lin Biao, said Tsingtao was seized by Maoist revolutionaries on Jan. 22. But it said the city administration employed "white terror" — Communist phraseology for assassination and torture — to launch a "counteroffensive" on the newly born revolutionary rebel committee and attempted to continue bourgeois rule.

The report said the pro-Liu forces attacked the Tsingtao daily and "obstructed and threatened the Tsingtao people's radio station" in an attempt to block a message to Mao.

The army unit siding with Mao broke through this encirclement, the army daily said, and "severely struck down" the attack. It added that the army force, identified only as "a certain unit," staged a demonstration with full armament Jan. 28 to show its support for Mao.

"This action by the liberation army greatly blunted the hot air of the class enemies and helped the people who were blinded to wake up," the army paper said.

Since the 1949 Communist conquest, Tsingtao has been a major base for Communist construction in the interior. It has large cotton, paper, oilseed and flour mills, shipyards, a tire factory and locomotive shops.

Technical Aid Specialists To Meet At NMU

MARQUETTE—Michigan's 11 directors of the State Technical Services Program will meet at Northern Michigan University Wednesday to discuss ways of providing expanded technical services to Upper Peninsula businesses and industries.

The program (STSP), carried out through the State Technical Services Act of 1965, is a systematic effort designed to put new technological advances into the hands of business, commerce and industry through closer coordination between 11 participating state colleges and universities and industries.

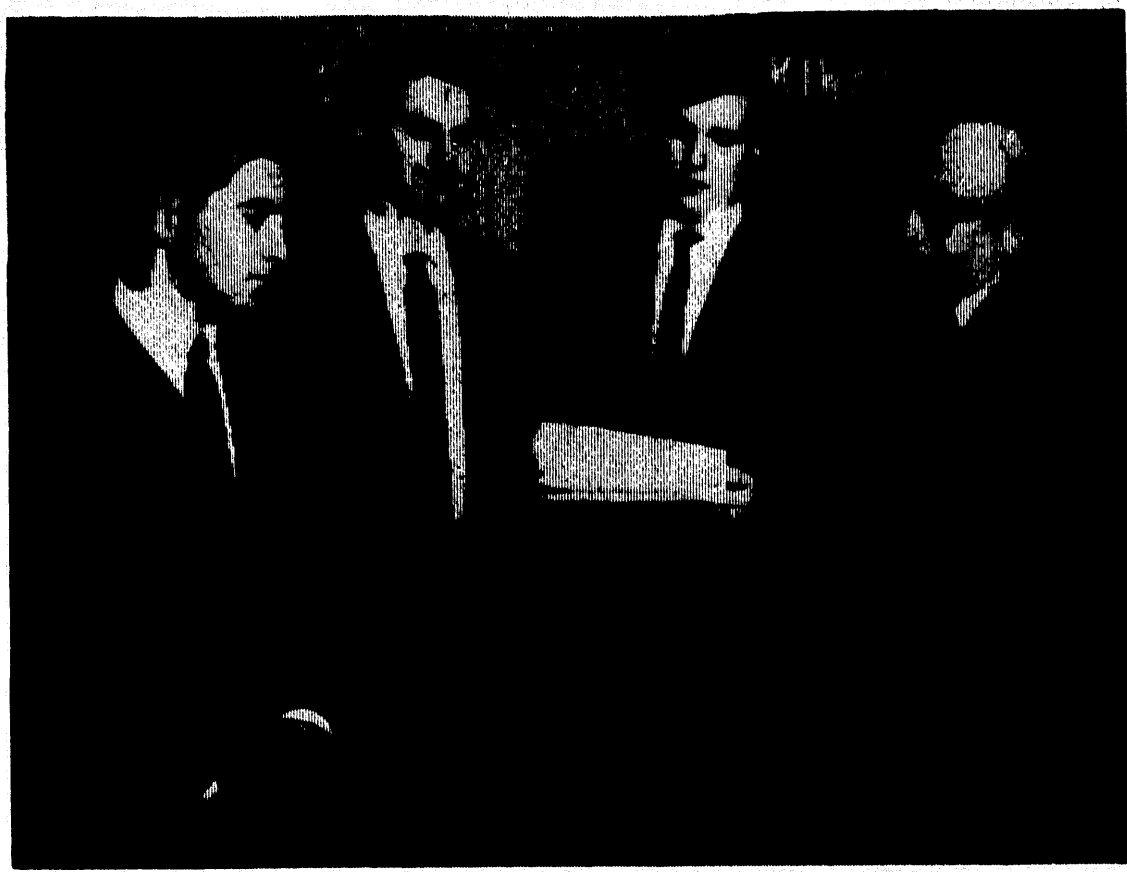

When needs are identified, resources of the colleges are drawn upon to provide the type of assistance needed.

The directors, accompanied by Richard Terselic, program analyst, Office of State Technical Services, U.S. Department of Commerce, Washington D.C., and Charles Bragg, STSP systems manager, East Lansing, will meet with four NMU representatives: Dr. Claud Boerwirth, vice president for public services; Dr. Jack Rombouts, assistant to the president; Russell Adams, director of business and industrial services; and John P. Farrell, director of research and development.

Attending schools representatives will include: Leo Lucchesi, Michigan Tech, Houghton; Lawrence Crockett, University of Michigan; John Bigelow, Wayne State University, Detroit; Dr. Harold Gray, Michigan State University, East Lansing.

HOW AN ISLAND in Delta County will serve as a laboratory for students of high school age was described to a joint meeting of Rotary and Kiwanis Clubs in Escanaba Monday. ## Island Science Camp Will Open This Year

Combining education and camping is the exciting idea that sparked the creation of Summer Science Inc., and will bring to Summer Island in Delta County the opening of its first "science camp" this year.

The story of Summer Science Inc., was presented to a joint meeting of Escanaba Rotary and Kiwanis Clubs Monday noon at Marco's by E. Dan Stevens, president, and Terry D. Brooks, vice president of the non-profit educational scientific organization.

Summer Island is located three miles from Fairport, a Delta County fishing village at the southern end of the Garden Peninsula.

Stevens is a secondary science teacher at Whitmore Lake, Mich., and Brooks, principal-teacher, Atlanta, Mich.

High School Age

Don Wertz, Kiwanis Club president, conducted the meeting; greetings were voiced by Isadore Stein, Rotary Club president; and the program was presented by Clint Dunathan of the Rotary Club program committee.

The talk by Stevens was illustrated with color slides, including a number showing the beauty of Summer Island (the largest among a dozen or more along Delta County's 150-mile shoreline) and its unique advantage as the site for a camp that "will give research-oriented scientific training to high school students in an atmosphere of adventure and wilderness beauty."

Summer Science Inc., owns 540 acres of the total 2,200 acre land area of the island, and included is 18,000 feet of lake frontage whose shoreline ranges from gravel beaches to bed rock cliffs.

Stevens, Brooks and the other founders and current trustees of Summer Science are among recognized and successful businessmen and educators of Michigan.

Scientific Spirit

Dr. Barton R. Burkhalter is a business executive; Ronald D. Gregg is an attorney; F. Rodney Marlatt is a university basketball coach; Raymond D. Marlatt is a builder; Dr. Alfred S. Sussman is chairman of the Department of Botany and Dr. Burton E. Voss is a professor of science education, University of Michigan.

"This organization has been established to provide high school students a balanced program of scientific and recreational enrichment," said Stevens. "We believe the program to be uniquely suited to foster:

1. The spirit of scientific inquiry; 2. Independence and initiative; 3. Skills of communication; 4. Recreational skills.

"The spirit of scientific inquiry will be developed through active participation in an investigation which is supervised by an expert in the field. A scientific problem will be identified, approached and developed through the means that a scientist would use," he continued.

Island 'Laboratory'

"Problems appropriate to the camp site on Summer Island will be stressed such as the natural history of the animals and plants of the region and their interaction. Moreover, the geology of the Great Lakes and their hydrology, and other aspects of the environment of Summer Island will provide the basis for research projects. Archeological investigations are particularly suited to the camp because of the continuing excavation of an Indian site on the island.

"Wherever possible the campers will choose, design and execute the project themselves," Stevens said.

"A vital part of any scientific endeavor is the communication of results. Campers will be urged to write reports of their observations and to communicate them verbally to fellow campers, both informally and through formal means. An example of the latter is a final convention at which the results of all projects will be orally presented by campers to an audience of other campers, parents and counselors."

Recreation will include water sports, baseball, volleyball, badminton and other games under the supervision of trained counselors. Organized excursions to neighboring islands and other points of interest are planned to include overnight camping, Stevens reported.

Current plans call for the initial operation of a two-week

Three Killed In Texas Air Crash

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—A military contract plane carrying Air Force priority cargo crashed in heavy fog today and all three crewmen were killed.

The craft, a DC6 operated by Saturn Airways, crashed up in a pasture two miles north of San Antonio's International Airport about 3:30 a.m.

Names of the dead were not immediately available.

Earl Cato, assistant chief of the control tower at International Airport, said the cargo carrier was inbound from Davis-Monthan Air Force Base at Tucson, Ariz., for Kelly Air Force Base on the south side of San Antonio.

Fog closing in Kelly forced diversion of the ship to the airport about 15 miles across the city, Cato said.

Art Donor May Take It Back

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Avery Brundage has threatened to take back the $30-million collection of Oriental art he donated to San Francisco.

Brundage says that he is unhappy about the care given the collection housed in a special museum wing that opened last summer at a cost of $2.75 million to the people of San Francisco.

"I'm not being vengeful," he declared Monday. "What has been allowed to happen is a shame, whether it's my collection or someone else's."

What has angered Brundage are such incidents as the breaking of a statue face last year and the theft two weeks ago of a 19th-century Japanese scroll valued at $1,200.

Brundage, for many years chairman of the U.S. Olympic Committee, said he had complained several times to Richard S. Rheim, chairman of the Board of Trustees of the M. H. de Young Art Museum in Golden Gate Park. The collection is housed in a two-story wing paid for by a voter-approved bond issue.

Senate Approves $15,783 For Tech

LANSING (AP) — The Senate approved a $3.57 million supplemental appropriations bill Monday night, including $2.8 million for building projects at Michigan institutions of higher learning.

The bill was passed 23 - 4 and sent to the House. The measure provides $15,783 for Michigan Tech.

Final Tributes Paid Astronauts

member board of inquiry continued to sift evidence and interview witnesses, searching for the key to the spacecraft fire.

Likely to receive the board's critical consideration is a 3-year-old National Aeronautics and Space Administration report detailing previous fires in oxygen-filled chambers.

The NASA report showed four men suffered critical burns in 1962 during experimentation in Philadelphia with an oxygen-filled simulated space cabin. That blaze was touched off by an electrical spark, said the report.

The study, prepared by the Lovelace Foundation for Medical Education and Research, Albuquerque, N.M., was part of a series on space cabin fire and blast hazards.

It suggested that the ease with which scientists handled previous fire threats involving oxygen in space cabins may have created "a false sense of security."

The flag-draped coffins of the astronauts were brought in a jet transport Monday from Cape Kennedy. Their families and family clergymen followed in other planes.

Services Simple

The Arlington burial spot is atop a knoll, from which a panorama of Washington, including the Capitol and the Washington Monument, is visible through now-leafless trees. Three other astronauts killed in plane crashes are buried about 400 yards away.

The schedule calls for an 18-minute funeral march from the cemetery's administration building to the gravesite. For Grissom, an Air Force band, color guard and platoon are assigned.

For flying Navy man Chaffee, there is a platoon of blue jackets and a Navy band. The graveside portion of each service is scheduled to last about seven minutes.

White will be buried in the shadows of the Catskill Mountains, high above the Hudson River, in a small cemetery where most of the headstones are simple. Before the burial, his casket will lie in state for an hour at the old Cadet Chapel nearby.

Modern Art Goes Topless

SAN GABRIEL, Calif. (AP) — Some critics say that modern art has blown its top. But who ever thought it would go topless?

Well, the art world had best prepare itself. Topless art has come to San Gabriel and, though the proportions of the new fad's influence are not yet known, more than a few residents, mostly male, have felt it is worth looking at.

The technique involves the use of a topless girl, paint, canvas and a crowd of onlookers to create an abstract painting.

The technique: Artist dabs girl with paint — usually cold paint so the girl can squeal — and girl slithers onto canvas. This produces unusual designs on the canvas, and the girl, too, which are quite different from most examples of abstract art.

The artist, Warren Stagg, 38, of Hollywood, says he is serious about his work.

Like many artistic innovators he has his detractors.

The mayor and City Council of San Gabriel, located about 10 miles east of Los Angeles, have been complaining since Stagg opened his "art show" at a restaurant.

When the club opened its art show New Year's Eve, Coleman was charged with providing entertainment without a license. The case may be heard today in Alhambra Municipal Court.

Meanwhile, the exhibitions continue. So does public protest — except from those who fill the house every day.

Litton Buys Lake Cargo Vessels

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP)—Litton Industries Inc., is going into the Great Lakes transportation business. The purchase of 11 ships and current transportation contracts from Wilson Marine Transit Co., Cleveland was announced Monday. The price was not disclosed.

Litton, a diversified company with 50 divisions, deals in electronics, business machines, materials handling equipment and ships.

Madrid Student Riots Injure 50

MADRID (AP) — Madrid University students threatened new demonstrations today after a fierce campus battle with Spanish security forces in which at least 50 students and police were injured, some seriously.

Officials of Spain's largest educational institution debated whether to suspend classes and send more than 20,000 students home rather than risk more violence.

Police and students battled with stones and clubs on the university's spacious campus Monday after the police halted about 700 students attempting to march to the rector's office to demand release of classmates seized after a similar skirmish last Friday.

The clash Friday was triggered by use of police force to smash workers' demonstrations against rising living costs and boosts in local transport charges throughout the nation. The workers are demanding doubling of the $1.40-a-day minimum wage.

Senate Argues Timing Of Romney Budget Message

LANSING (AP) — State senators battled Monday night over the time of day Gov. George Romney should be allowed to present his budget message to the Legislature.

Republicans prevailed in the 17-10 party-line vote on a concurrent resolution inviting Romney to present his message — expected to include a state income tax proposal — to the Legislature at a 7 p.m. session Thursday. The time will allow live television coverage.

South Haven New Class B Leader

Two Peninsula Quints Continue To Lead State Basketball Poll

By The Associated Press
South Haven grabbed first place in the Michigan Associated Press Class B high school basketball poll this week in the only change at the top. South Haven displaced Willow Run, which fell to fifth after losing to Ecorse 73-71.

Muskegon Heights remained atop Class A. L'Anse stayed in front in Class C and Ewen held the lead in Class D.

In Class A, Hamtramck, which lost to River Rouge 67-63, fell from second to a tie for sixth with Saginaw. Saginaw, third last week, lost to Pontiac Central 65-60. Detroit Northwestern moved from fourth to second and Detroit Pershing jumped from sixth to third. Birmingham Groves moved up from fifth to fourth and Waterford Kettering climbed from seventh to fifth.

South Haven moved from second to first in Class B. Marysville climbed to second from third and Caro moved up one notch to third. Charlotte edged up from fifth to fourth.

In Class C, Leslie, Charlevoix, Mount Pleasant Sacred Heart and Muskegon Christian trail L'Anse in order.

Flint St. Matthew and Fowler trail Ewen in Class D. But Trout Creek, second a couple of weeks ago, fell out of the Top Ten with its second loss, 74-54 to Channing.

Pontiac St. Michael jumped from seventh to fourth and took Trout Creek's old spot. Adrian Catholic Central remained fifth.

Guerin Booms Rookie Hudson

ST. LOUIS (AP)—"Lou Hudson can be a superstar in the NBA," says St. Louis Hawks Coach Richie Guerin. "He's a great shooter right now — not just good, but great."

Hudson, a first year forward, has quietly moved into the race for National Basketball Association's Rookie-of-the-Year. Most people had conceded the title to such publicized freshmen as Dave Bing of Detroit and Cazzie Russell of New York.

"As far as I'm concerned, Bing is the only one that even comes close to Lou as a rookie of the year. And I think Lou is more valuable to his team than Bing," Guerin explained.

Hudson, a former Big Ten star at Minnesota, is scoring 17.7 points per game and has a .457 field goal average.

"Lou is probably one of the quickest shooters in the league... that's his great point — his shooting," says Guerin. "And when he starts to drive more he'll really be something."

Like most rookies, the Greensboro, N.C., native says defense is his biggest problem. But he feels he has improved and will continue to do so with experience.

"Before, other teams used to play to me," admits Hudson. "If they needed the two points then the play would come to my side. But after about the first 10 games I learned how to handle it."

Alex Hannum, coach of the Eastern Division leading Philadelphia 76ers, calls Hudson "a heck of a shooter. He has to be considered for Rookie of the Year."

"He has all the tools to be a great one — no doubt about it. He shows a lack of experience, but he'll get that."

OUR BOARDING HOUSE with Major Heopie

Fighters Take Early Weighin

GLADSTONE Soo's Earnings Gain 6th Year

Beginners Bridge Class Will Start Here On Feb. 6

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Cassius Clay and Ernie Terrell had an appointment with the Texas Boxing Commission today in the Astrodome ring where they fight Monday night to settle the world's heavyweight championship.

After the preliminary weigh-in and physical examination both boxers move into their final few workouts. Terrell is solemn and noncommittal about his strategy. Clay is keeping up his nonstop psychological warfare against the sullen World Boxing Association champ.

The Astrodome impresarios, silent until Monday on the matter of the in-person fight, issued a prediction that more than 35,000 seats would be sold—more than were sold for Clay's brief encounter with hometown fighter Cleveland Williams last November.

The ticket buyers include a gallery of Clay's defeated foes—George Chuvalo, Karl Mildenberger, Floyd Patterson.

Sonny Liston was due in Houston in time for today's weigh-in. When Clay heard Monday that he was on his way, he said, "I'd like to box him a few rounds," a notion promptly quashed.

Patterson's former mentor, Gus D'Amato, is coming to town with his new charge, Buster Mathis, the 22-year-old fighter who won the 1964 Olympic trials and then yielded the heavyweight slot on the team because of a hand injury.

Mathis will box stocky Waban Thomas of Charlotte, N.C., in a six-round preliminary. Thomas is a 10-year veteran and weighs 210 pounds. Mathis is 16-0 professionally with a dozen knockouts. He's a lean and hungry 235, down from 300 in his pre-D'Amato days.

A sixth consecutive record in earnings was set by Soo Line Railroad in 1966, Leonard H. Murray, president, announces. Net income for the Soo in 1966 was $6.5 million, or $5.16 per share, on earnings from total revenues of $92.8 million, also a record for the company.

Net income in 1966 was 17.6 per cent greater than the net income of $5.5 million produced in 1965. Total revenues were 8 per cent greater than 1965's total revenues of $85.9 million.

The profitability of the Soo has increased steadily since the company was formed in 1961. On a per-share basis, net income in 1961 was 52 cents, in 1962 was $2.45, in 1963 was $3.24, in 1964 was $3.44, and in 1965 was $4.39.

The Soo's traffic increased in many areas, notably wheat and Canadian potash and liquefied petroleum gases. Increases were seen also in paper

A Beginners Bridge Class under the direction of Mrs. G. E. Dahlin will begin Monday evening, Feb. 6, in the multi-purpose room of the James T. Jones School.

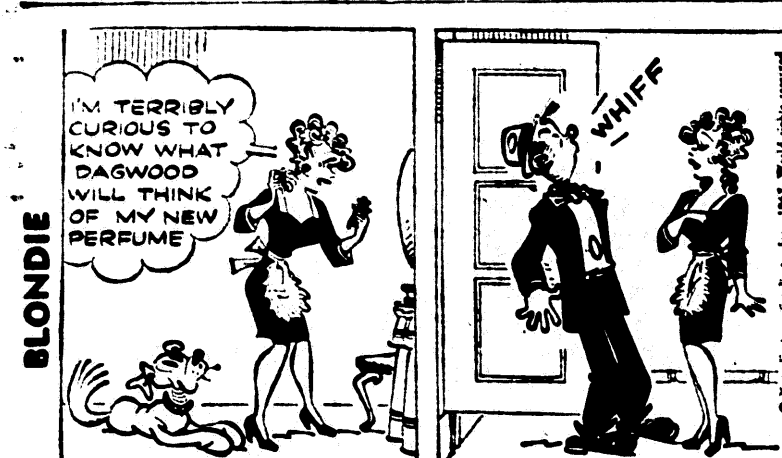

This class is a part of the adult education program at the High School and will be conducted each Monday from 7 to 9 p.m. The necessary 12 members have been obtained but registrations will still be accepted at the office of the Supt. of Public Schools. A nominal fee is charged for the course.

A full-sized prototype electric car is being developed at San Diego. Ford Motor Co. has a similar project.

Kingston Trio Tire Of 'Tom Dooley'

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The Kingston Trio, whose rhythmic folk songs started a guitar-twang craze on the nation's campuses, is giving up the act that has netted millions.

Bob Shane, Nick Reynolds and John Stewart announced Monday they will disband after June 1, even though the trio can still earn $750,000 annually.

The reason they give: the public won't let them sing anything but "Tom Dooley" and other standard folk tunes.

Ten years ago, American folk music was largely limited to avant garde night clubs and hillbilly hoodlums. Then three California college boys took up guitars and banjo and formed a group they called the Kingston Trio — so named because Harry Belafonte's calypso music was then the fad.

The lively harmony of Shane, Reynolds and Dave Guard — who later left and was replaced by Stewart — captured the fancy of the college crowd, especially with the record of "Tom Dooley," which sold three million copies.

Soon they were earning a million dollars a year from albums, TV, commercials and appearances. New folk singing acts sprang up all over and young Americans began thumping guitars and singing "Across the Wide Missouri" and "Where Have All the Flowers Gone?"

After singing "Tom Dooley" some three thousand times, the Kingston Trio began to tire of the diet of sameness. "We felt that folk music was moving in a new direction and we tried to change with the times," said Reynolds "but we found audiences resented our trying something new."

Paradise To Hell:*State Has Many Colorful Names

What's in a name? The question draws lots of responses in Michigan on the 1967 highway map.

The state's official highway map will show 1,627 cities, villages and places such as parks, lakes and rivers—but more than 2,100 other spots will be left off for a lack of space. The names from the map and the log combine to offer many interesting contrasts as well as clues to their origin.

Nature lovers, for example, can find Wolf Creek, Yellow Dog Point, Cat Head Point, Duck Lake, Gull Lake, Eagle, Elk, Sleeping Bear Point, the Porcupine Mountain, Wildcat Mill and Wildfowl Bay.

A numbers game can be played with Uno, Two River, Three Lakes, Four Towns, Five Points, Six Lakes, Seven Harbors, Eight Mile Corner, Nine Mile Point and Ten Mile Rd.

Hell And Jam
There's Holland, Sault Ste. Marie, Eau Claire, the Irish

Hills, French Landing, Quakerstown, Ceylon and Poland along with a place called Moscow in Hillsdale County.

Dreamland, Paradise and Prosper might offer an alternative to Witch Lake, Devils Lake and Hell, but even Shakespeare would be at home in Verona with Romeo, Venice Station and Trent.

Caesar could find Brutus, Titus, Aurelius, Romulus, Bruno and Rome Center. The Rubicon, Pompeii, Utica, Aetna and Tyre would also ring familiar to ancient history students.

In sharp contrast to the sonorous designations derived from history are names like Grape in Monroe County, Jam in Milland County and Jam Dam in Menominee County.

Many Historical

American history, of course, hasn't been slighted by Michigan name makers. There's a Washington, Lincoln, Sheridan, Grant, Jackson and Bunker Hill. And Michigan also has a Wellington, a Napoleon and, of course, a Waterloo.

The early settlers brought many of the names with them. They also continued to use Indian names that had been in existence. Others such as Novi and Bad Axe came about for unusual reasons.

Novi, for example, was Station No. VI on the Old Plank Rd. from Detroit to Lansing. And a surveyor referred to a point on his map as Bad Axe because he found an old axe there while surveying the territory.

Cushing Tells Plan To Retire

BOSTON. (AP) — Richard Cardinal Cushing of Boston says he will retire to Latin America when he reaches age 75, and expects no opposition to his plans.

The cardinal has said in the past that he has asked to go to Latin America but was turned down by superiors.

"I've had it," he told more than 2,000 priests, nuns and laymen gathered in his honor. "The great liberals of today's Church have no sense of humor."

Cardinal Cushing, who will be 72 in August, said the Pope "won't dare to say no" to the retirement, because "nobody's understood me since Pope John XXIII."

In Latin America, he said he plans to be a father confessor to priests and nuns, "because I'm the easiest confessor in the Church," and serve as a "challenge to United States bishops to send more priests to Latin America."

Mastodon Bones Found In Closet

EMORY, Va. (AP) — An archaeological study of southwest Virginia has turned up the bones of two extinct elephant-like mastodons — in a storage closet at Emory and Henry College.

Dr. Cayton Ray of Washington's Smithsonian Institution, who led the exploratory study, said the bones were discovered in 1880 and were donated to the college.

The partial remains, estimated to be 15,000 years old, were stored in the science hall.

Farm Coop Loses Members, Quits

GRAND RAPIDS (AP) — The farmers cooperative that negotiated the highest prices for midwest cherry growers in 19 years last summer suspended operations Monday because of declining farmer support.

B.I. Freeman, secretary manager of the Great Lakes Cherry Producers' Marketing Cooperative, said the board of directors agreed to suspend operations of the association and that his services have been terminated.

He said the bargaining association could be reactivated by strong farmer support.

At the peak of its strength last summer, the 10-year-old cooperative had the support of 20 per cent of the cherry growers in the five-state great lakes area. At that time they negotiated a price of 14½ cents per pound for cherries, the highest since 1947.

The association proposed that growers pay an assessment of five per cent of their gross and one half cent per pound. Freeman said the association had hoped to build up a $2.4 million war chest to finance any battle with the processors.

Only about one-third of last summer's membership have signed the new contract Freeman said.

Children's Aid

TRAVERSE CITY (AP) — Bernard Thompson, former director of the Bay City field office of Michigan Children's Aid, has been named executive director of the Northwest Michigan branch of the society.

Mead Earnings Up Fifth Year

DAYTON, O. — Results for 1966 reported by the Mead Corp. today indicate a fifth consecutive year of higher earnings and a new sales record of $633,290,625 for the diversified paper and paper products manufacturer.

Howard E. Whitaker, chairman of the board, said Mead's net earnings in '66 rose to $27,079,980, equal to $4.17 per common share. This represents a 17 per cent increase from the $3.57 per share achieved in 1965. Total earnings in '65 were $23,360,585.

Substantial internal growth, plus the addition of a wide range of educational products through a merger with Westab Inc. helped Mead achieve its new sales record. Sales climbed 11 per cent to the $633,290,625 total for '66 from $570,632,416, the 1965 sales figure.

Both earnings and sales reflect Westab's operations.

Westab Inc., a manufacturer and distributor of educational products, became a subsidiary of the Mead Corp. in May 1966.

"Most of Mead's remaining sales growth was made possible by expansions at its manufacturing facilities, particularly at the company's large white paper mill in Kingsport, Tenn.," Whitaker said.

"Strong demand in all of Mead's product areas (paper, paperboard, corrugated shipping containers, packaging, pulp and educational supplies) and improving efficiencies in our mills and plants combined to help keep sales and earnings moving upward," he noted. "Indications are that these conditions will continue."

Taxes on Mead's income were $21,200,000 in 1966, compared to $15,968,000 in 1965.
